Contents

James McConnell & Frank Ferguson
Introduction

Kevin James
‘In no degree inferior’: Scotland and ‘tourist development’ in late-Victorian Ireland

Clare M. Norcio
Societies and seminaries: technological exchange in Ulster agriculture

S. Karly Kehoe
Irish migrants and the recruitment of Catholic Sisters in Glasgow, 1847-1878

Andrew R. Holmes
Irish Presbyterian commemorations of their Scottish past, c.1830-1914

Frank Ferguson
‘The third character’: the articulation of Scottish identities in two Irish writers

Patrick Maume
From Scotland’s storied land: William McComb and Scots-Irish Presbyterian identity

Peter Gray
Thomas Chalmers and Irish Poverty

Matthew Potter
The urban local state in Scotland and Ireland to 1900: parallels and contracts

Susan Kelly
Tuberculosis cures used in Ireland, 1700-1950

Richard B. McCready
St Patrick’s Day in Dundee, c.1850-1900: a contested Irish institution in a Scottish context

Amy O’Reilly
‘All Irishmen of good character’: the Hibernian Society of Glasgow, 1792-1824

Máirtín Ó Catháin
Michael Collins and Scotland