

IRISH ELITES IN THE NINETEENTH CENTURY

Ciaran O’Neill, editor

Contents

LIST OF ILLUSTRATIONS	9
LIST OF ABBREVIATIONS	11
LIST OF CONTRIBUTORS	13
ACKNOWLEDGMENTS	16
Ciaran O’Neill Introduction	17
ELITES AND THE BUILT ENVIRONMENT
Andrew Tierney Architectures of gentility in nineteenth-century Ireland	31
Susan Galavan Building Victorian Dublin: Meade & Son and the expansion of the city	51
RETHINKING THE LANDED ESTATE
Kevin Mc Kenna Elites, ritual and the legitimization of power on an Irish landed estate, 1855–90	68
Maeve O’Riordan Assuming control: elite women as household managers in late nineteenth-century Ireland	83
Joanne McEntee ‘Gentlemen practisers’: solicitors as elites in mid-nineteenth-century Irish landed society	999
LOCAL ELITES AND ASSOCIATIONAL CULTURE
Matthew Potter ‘The most perfect specimen of civilised nature’: the Shannon Estuary Group – elite theory and practice	113
Felix M. Larkin Double helix: two elites in politics and journalism in Ireland, 1870–1918	125
Pamela Emerson The three Fs – founders, fellowship and finance: the influence of book club members on Belfast’s civic identity in the nineteenth century	137
Brian Griffin The Big House at play: archery as an elite pursuit from the 1830s to the 1870s	153

WRITING THE DECLINE

Patrick Maume

The ruins of Youghal: Canon Samuel Hayman, antiquarianism and the decline of Irish Anglican ascendancy 172

Anna Pilz

Lady Gregory's fans: the Irish Protestant landed class and negotiations of power 185

EXPORTING IRISH ELITES

Neil Smith and Mervyn Busted

A diasporic elite – the emergence of an Irish middle class in nineteenth-century Manchester 197

Raphaël Ingelbien

Men who did not exist? Irish tourists and the definition of a national elite 209

Timothy G. McMahon

A new role for Irish Anglicans in the later nineteenth century: the HCMS and imperial opportunity 222

PORTRAYING THE POLITICAL ELITES

Fintan Cullen

Visual parody and political commentary: John Doyle and Daniel O'Connell 233

Nicola K. Morris

'A rara avis': Jeremiah Jordan, Methodist and Nationalist MP 248

REVISITING BLOCKED MOBILITY

John Hutchinson

The Irish revival, elite competition and the First World War 259

INDEX 275